A Veteran Dies.

William McMullen died at his home on Second street, Martin's Ferry, on Saturday, aged eighty-seven years. He was a member of a West Virginia regiment and did duty at Wheeling. The interment was at Riverview yesterday afternoon. Rev. W. D. Harzog officiated.

Talmage at Mt. Pleasant.

Rev. Dr. T. DeWitt Talmage will lecture at Mt. Pleasant on Monday evening, July 8, under the auspices of the lecture bureau of that place. The lecture will take place in the Friends church and an effort will be made for an excursion on the W. & L. E. from Wheeling and other points.

Is It Possible?

A dispatch from Washington, D. C., says:
Ex-Congressman A. J. Pearson, of Ohio, recently tendered the appointment of mineral land commissioner, called at the white house to-day and declined the appointment. The announcement that an Ohio man had refused to accept an office created a tremendous sensation, and the town is all torn up.

Did Not Commit Suicide.

Mrs. Caroline Porter, of Martin's Ferry, did not drown herself as was generally supposed. Her mother received a letter from her on Saturday dated at 3329 Penn avenue, Pittsburg, asking for some of her money and clothing, where she had secured work in a private family as servant. Marshal E. E. Moore went up on Saturday evening and found her at the number given. She promised to return to Martin's Ferry.

Sapp Was a Sprinter.

Albert Sapp, who was indicted by the Belmont county grand jury for perjury last week, was arrested on Saturday night by Policeman Scott Neal, of Martin's Ferry, and taken to the city building. While Neal was telephoning to Deputy Sheriff Thompson to see if Sapp was wanted he skipped out. Neal followed Sapp, but he had a good start and being a good runner made his escape. The police in all of the neighboring towns and cities were notified.

Pleasant Birthday Party.

On Friday evening the friends of Charles Rupp helped him celebrate his thirty-sixth birthday at M. Aquila's place on North Main street. He is a popular employee of the Top mill, and about thirty of his friends gathered to help him enjoy the occasion. The amusements were music, dancing and plenty of refreshments of all kinds, including a good supper. All who were present will long remember the evening with pleasure.

A Wonderful Voice.

One day last week Gene Wells, the Postal Union messenger boy, heard a strange boy singing on a street corner, and, taking pity on his condition, gave him a suit of clothes and took him to his home. The boy's home is in Jeannette, Pa., and he is the possessor of a wonderful soprano voice. Sunday evening he was singing for a coterie of traveling men at the McClure, when his vocal efforts attracted the admiration and interest of the manager of the "1492" company. He also pronounced young Dunlay's voice of unusual quality, and it is not improbable that an engagement with this company will result.

Prominent Citizen Dies.

James Jamison, a prominent citizen of Martin's Ferry, died yesterday morning at 2 o'clock, after a lingering illness, aged forty-seven years. He was born at Shepherdstown, O., and was educated in Washington county, Pa., after which he was in business several years. He was engaged in farming in the west a number of years, and performed the feat of driving from Dakota to Martin's Ferry, over a distance of 1,200 miles. He had been a contractor hereabouts for ten years prior to his illness. He was married in 1883 to Miss Augusta Jordan, and to them have been born four children. The wife and children survive him, also two sisters, Mrs. H. M. Pickens and Mrs. John Marlow. The deceased was a Presbyterian and Odd Fellow. The funeral will take place tomorrow at 2 o'clock. The interment will be at Scotch Ridge.

MORE LAWLESSNESS.

A Non-Union Glass Worker Shot At By Unknown Men Saturday Night.

More shooting occurred at Martin's Ferry on Saturday night. Ten or twelve shots were fired. Albert Willard was the target. Five men followed him and fired several shots, and he returned the fire.

Willard, who is a glass-blower, employed at the Buckeye Glass Works, boards at Fred Ritter's, on Vine street. He was on his way to his boarding house about 9:30 on Saturday night and was fired upon near the base ball ground by five men who had followed him and called him vile names.

At first one shot was fired, followed by two others, after which Willard fired four shots in quick succession. He tried to continue the shooting, but his revolver refused to work, and he ran rapidly in the direction of his boarding house and fell in a gutter. He reached Ritter's without injury excepting a few bruises.

The shooting was heard and seen by a number of persons, and it is said one of the assailants was recognized. Willard was alone when the shots were fired. He says the five men had been following him for some time, and after he came out of a store on Fourth street one of them was overheard saying in a low voice: "Don't get too close to him or he will shoot you."

The shooting created considerable excitement. Two men who were standing on Fourth street were talking about the action of the grand jury, and one remarked: "Those indictments will put an end to the lawlessness for awhile at least." He had scarcely finished the sentence until the shooting commenced.

A FAMOUS CATCH.

A Wheeling Fisherman in Florida Comes Home with a True Story.

Mr. W. T. Burt returned last week from a three weeks' pleasure trip to Florida. While there Mr. Burt succeeded in catching a tarpon, or silver king fish, weighing 100 pounds with rod and line. This fish is much sought for at this time of the year in Florida waters, as fishermen from all over the United States congregate there to engage in the sport, which is very exciting. It requires considerable skill to land a 100 pound fish with rod and line. Mr. Burt describes his experience in making his famous catch very vividly, and brings home some scales measuring 3x4 inches to prove that his is a true story.

The report of the failure of the tropical fruit crop in Florida has not been exaggerated, says Mr. Burt. Except in the extreme southern part of the state the orange, and, in fact all fruit as well as the trees are killed by the frost. The trees are being cut down, and altogether the people are in a deplorable condition.

"Wang" Saturday Night.

The comic opera, "Wang," was given at the Opera House Saturday night to an unusually large audience, and it was very enthusiastically received. The staging is first class and the company well selected. The production was quite up to the standard established in larger cities in past seasons and by other performers.

L. S. GOOD & CO. always do as they advertise. See their space in the "News."

Wheeling Legal Directory.

An elegant directory containing the full addresses of the offices of the attorneys-at-law of the city of Wheeling, is being arranged and will be placed in a convenient place for the benefit of the people as a convenience in finding any lawyer's office in the city. It also locates the daily city papers. This directory will be invaluable to the people unacquainted with the city law offices, and it can be always kept correct and reliable as the design of directory is new. Every person's address is separately slipped into a neat apartment, and all these combined placed in a fine case of antique oak, with plate glass front and locked, and on removal of any firm, this case may be unlawful and the address corrected. This is to be appreciated.
